

JASTRZAB 13...JASTRZAB 13...JASTRZAB 13...JASTRZAB 13...JASTRZAB 13...JAN, 1973

THIS IS JASTRZAB, a gamezine of Diplomacy. In fact this is a very gamey gamezine. Edited by Stan Wrobel, 7 Poland Village Blvd., Poland, Ohio 44514. (216-7574110). Subscription rates continue at 10/$1.50, game fees and trades see below.

TRYING TO GO TO PRESS. This issue will contain little or nothing of the regular features that have been contained in past episodes in the life of an average, everyday Polish Hero. Rather, we must report on several events which took place between #12 and the present. Many people inquired as to the lengthly deadline set for this issue.

REASONS FOR DEADLINE LENGTH:

1. IT WAS CHRISTMAS! There is only one time of the year when we are completely botched up as far as leading a normal life is concerned and that is Christmas.
2. EDI BIRSAN (AND ARNOLD PROJANSKY) CAME IN FOR A WEEKEND. A weekend with Edi will positively set you back a week in sleep. (see below)
3. THE MAILS ARE POSITIVELY SCREWED UP! That statement applies throughout the year, but especially at Christmas. Besides this, throughout Christmas I compiled bunches of moves, only to lose or misplace a couple. To insure that noone submitted moves that either I did not receive or misplaced, I called (at my expense) all those whose moves I did not have at the deadline. Out of what should be called the regulars, I could not reach Taeusch, Prokopowicz, Witt, or Bosky. But I tried, one way or another.
4. WALTER BUCHANAN ADVISES A VISIT. The weekend before New Years, Walter advised that he would be in the area. Preparations were made, all other events were cancelled or postponed. (see below)

GAMEFEES: While searching for the abovementioned moves, I had a chance to take some accounting of the year's expences vrs. the year's income. While never expecting to realize any profit (or even break even), I am sad to say the deficit was larger than anticipated. Therefore, all future games (excluding game five starting in this issue) will carry a game fee of $5.00. No discounts to anyone. If Birsan wins/won the Presidency of the IDA, there may even be an additional charge for IDA members as a penalty for your irrationality. Hehheh.

TRADES: All trade agreements will, regrettably, be terminated with this issue with three notable exceptions. 1. Conrad VonMetze as the keeper of the numbers (see the notice for EVERYTHING YOU ALWAYS WANTED TO KNOW ABOUT DIPLOMACY in #12) deserves the cooperation of all gamesmasters in keeping an accurate, up-to-date, first-hand set of game statistics. 2. RAY BOWERS as the keeper of the names (publishes THE DIPLOMACY CENSUS, a listing of all current Diplomacy players. Sub:$1.00 per year, quarterly) must be kept informed and sending him a magazine is the easiest way to keep him abreast of some of your addresses. 3. WALTER BUCHANAN as perhaps the most dedicated of the archivists renders a service to all by making past issues of 'zines available to all. Besides, Carol will need something to keep her going with what's-his-name. I have noticed that many of the trades I enjoyed were received here with more frequency than the rate at which JASTRZAB'S Were being dispatched. This has to lead to a disparity between the costs of maintaining trades. Secondly, by reducing the number of issues printed (thus having only subscribers or players), I can reduce my own postage costs and reduce the time element slightly for distribution of an issue. I intended to publish faster this year (cheers!), but have actually less time to do it in. Cutting out trades is one small way.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT: To the doubters of the Polish method of forecasting events. He has come (although rather late). Note the HE! Note that JASTRZAB correctly forecasted a 'him' long before anyone else. Note also that the one in the boondocks of New York was wrong in forecasting a 'her'. Be humbled, Edi. SON OF HA HAS ARRIVED! Welcome, O William Saunders Buchanan! (8lbs, 15oz! Never thought Carol had it (him) in her). May your filing cabinets be filled; may your typing fingers be nimble, may your ascent to the top of the heap in the IDA be swift, and we hope you have a sister soon. THAT would get your mother out of the Dippy Widows Association right into the Dippy Mothers Association quickly.

SPECIAL REPORT A...A HOOSIER RETURNS TO THE YOUNGSTOWN BATTLEGROUND:

SPECIAL REPORT #2...A EDI-POLAND, Round Two.

Having pity on Mr. Birsan, we agreed to a return visit. Fully equipped this time and with his own hand-picked ally, Arnold Projansky (known in some circles as GULLEK THE LAME and in others as THE COKE MAN), Edi Birsan announces that he will arrive by car around 7 in the evening on Friday the 15th of December. Needless to say, he becomes lost and requires guidance to home base. Typical Birsan move. Anyhow, Birsan pulls into the drive, jumps out of the car, and yells, "Let's play tanks!" Readers have already been exposed to an earlier report of the armoured encounters that have taken place here on the last occasion of A Edi (or the Hopewell Hoopers) to Poland.

Now then, there are very few games that I would rate myself 'good' at. After about 50 more losses to Smythe and Koning in BATTLE OF BRITAIN, I may be good at that. I was weaned on Pinockle, so am rather consistent at that. Perhaps a couple of others. However, IF one individual has the only game in existance and has had the opportunity to tinker with said board and rules and pieces for any length of time, anyone else is going to be in a slight bind when challanging said individual to "his" game. Nevertheless, after a couple hours of chitchat with John Koning (everpresent) and, having given his ally Arnold a third Coke, Edi once again cast aspersions on my shooting ability. We retire to the game room/wrecked room/site of the slaughter-to-come. The rest of Friday night was a replay of his first visit...at 5 in the morning, I weaken and he wins a game. Joyfully we both retire for the night.

Saturday, scouring for victims, we are unable to come up with enough for a 'regular' game of you-know-what. So...we decide on LORD OF THE RINGS, which only requires six dummies. Your humble narrator draws Mordor. Samson is necessarily cast as the villain in the historical version of the plot. HOWEVER, when you are sitting at a board with EDI BIRSAN, JOHN SMYTHE, JOHN KONING, ARNOLD PROJANSKY, AND TONY DASTOLI, there is no way that I am going to wear the cloak of evil doings. NO WAY! To make a long story (sad, but true) short, MORDOR once again falls to the good guys. GONDOR (John Koning) wins!

The end of the evening finds our heroes descending into the depths to do battle again after giving Arnold his second carton of Coke. By this time I am tired and weary and not to be shooting to straight. Nevertheless, the second night of tanking ends with the game score at (-2 or something like that. On the probable advise of Bob Keathley, Birsan had smuggled in a couple of bottles of Champagne and Cold Duck, knowing my resistance to said beverages. Still didn't produce the desired effect of letting him wipe me off the board.

SUNDAY, BLOODY SUNDAY. "ONE LAST GAME"! "JUST ONE MORE CHANCE, PLEASE"! A warning to all individuals having to face Birsan in a game...his tolerance for punishment seems to increase with the amount of beatings inflicted on him. But it was Sunday and it was snowing and we were beginning to run out of Coke, so I agreed to one more battle. By now at the peak of his game (I NEVER SAW TWO/THIRDS OF HIS TANKS!) and taking advantage of every nook and cranny on the board, Birsan is able to keep his finger out of the gun barrel long enough to wipe out your humble narrator's forces. Visibly upset, I concede, much to Mr. Projansky's delight who would have had to face the prospect of riding with a sullen, sulking semi-hero for 300 or so miles. As it was, Edi practically beat the speed record back home to New York in his anxiety to note his great dramatic victory in his WIM DIARY...wouldn't even stop for a Howie Johnson Kola all the way through Pennsylvania I am led to believe.

IN THE VALLEY OF THE BARANDUIN:

According to one of the local river-boat men, Farad Longnose was recently seen in the region. He was kneeling on the bank of the river guzzling the water eagerly. After exclaiming loudly, "It sure doesn't taste like Brandy Wine!" Farad staggered upwards, lost his balance, and reeled backwards into the river. At last sight, he was floating peacefully downstream, snoring very loudly.

DEEP IN THE WILDERLANDS SOUTH OF THE MIRKWOD HILLS:

All reports now give the location of King Dain and the Dwarvish Legions as being on the march southward somewhere deep in the wilderlands south of Mirkwood. By some, it is rumored that he has moved this headquarters from Dalus to the legendary city of Cayseemo. Actually we understand that his natural desires for trees and hills has led him to the hamlet of Platte Woods. Only one thing is for sure, he has moved into an absolute wilderlands.

SOMEWHERE IN MISSOURI:

Jeffrey the Key Dwarf reports that his Braniff connections have established him in Kansas City. JEFF KEY, 7110 BERKLEY DR. NW, KANSAS CITY, MO., 64152. Please note this carefully in case you all want to get one of Mary Ann's old recipes or something.

TUNIS; The French pride, the warship Le Marne moved into Tunis this season in preparation for maneuvers in the Ionian. The other French warship in the Mediterranean, Le Seine, moved for the Ionian, but it was expected to fail than succeed. Meanwhile, the newest ship of the Grand French Fleet, Le Garrene, made way for the Mid-Atlantic. Unconfirmed reports indicated that Le Garrene would head for the Mediterranean next fall.

PARIS; The FMC received the official German Government's answer to our surrender press of last issue, and the official answer was that they would fight to the bitter end. We are impressed with the German will to fight, and we wish them the best of luck. However, the reports from Munich indicated that the war effort against Germany was near completion and that a major revision of Continental French Military Plans were due next Fall.

MARSAILLES; The Citizens for Defense of Marsailles were organized as a back-up unit for the recently deployed unit of the National French Army. The rumors have it that the re-enforced Citizens would be able to break the Austrian control of the Italian territory of Piedmont. The FMC in Marsailles reported, however, that the rumors were true about the Regiment of Polish Soldiers in Exile. They reported that the French Army of Marsailles was indeed composed of one Regiment of Polish Soldiers. There was a serious confrontation within the FMC as to whether the Poles should be used in the fight against the Austrians. The minority side felt that the Poles would not be effective soldiers due to Polish Ineptitude. Nevertheless, General Charles Nadslieuwski, son of a Polish immigrant, persuaded FMC to use the Poles. Time will tell whether or not the Poles fought well.

JASNY GORKI: WAIT TILL YOU TRY TO GET THEM INTO WARSAW BEFORE YOU MAKE ANY VALUE JUDGEMENTS AS TO THEIR RELATIVE MERIT AND VALUE...

BERLIN; The Kaiser informed the English today that the German fleet in the Baltic had been taken over by Polish Pirates and that the Reich can no longer assume any responsibility for the fleet's activities.

JASNY GORKI: POLISH PIRATES. INDEED!!! HMM...I WONDER IF I AM TYPING THE PRESS FOR THE RIGHT GAME...THE POLES ARE SUPPOSED TO BE FURTHER ON DOWN THE LINE! AH WELL, I GUESS EVERYONE THINKS THEMSELVES POLISH AT HEART.....

CONSTANTINOPLE (FISBIN): A Message from the Sultan to the armies:

When in danger or in doubt,
Run in circles, scream, and shout.
When your fear stands up your hair,
Kick it; kick it high into the air!
For when the enemy is both back and front,
You might as well just go and PUNT!

PARIS (TROGAN): The King of France, Tony Panda Bear the First, sent the Royal Poet to Constantinople with instructions to find the poet (?) who wrote for the Sultan. While there are no confirmed reports, it is suspected that His Majesty wishes to be sure that no members of said poet's family are living in France. Also, a recent decree requires that all persons of Arabic descent register with the Office of Housing before January 1.

POLAND, POLAND (JASZ): It has been noticed lately that great herds of Bare Ents have been closing in on this town. It seems as though they are coming to get the Poles. There is only one person that can stop them and he is: Tony Panda Bear; and he is away saving girls.

TROY (AGAIN): It was announced today that it was open season on Panda Bears through out Europe. Pope Urvain VI has called on herds of Bare Ents to destroy these creatures!

MARSAILLES (CRUSH): It has been noticed in France that pools for Bears (or Bares?) have been set up. It is hoped that the Ents will be able to kill the Bears and get the Bares!!

WE HAVE SWEPT THE FOUR CORNERS OF THE EARTH IN WHAT MUST BE LABELED "THE BIG SEARCH" TO FILL GAME FIVE WITH ANOTHER ILLUSTRIOS BUNCH OF PSEUDO-MASOCISTS. IT WAS A SIMPLE CHORE TO LOCATE THE MASOCISTS (CONRAD ASKS FOR AUSTRIA!), BUT FINDING ENOUGH PSEUDO'S DELAYED THE BEGINNING OF THE GAME UNTIL NOW.... THEREFORE, WITHOUT FURTHER CRAP, THE PLAYERS:

Most of these stalwarts should need not be galvanized in print to diehards of Diplomacy. Conrad the Vonis of course the new keeper of the numbers, the multi-lingual frustrated music critic from the west, and one of the early pioneers of treachery ((THAT OUGHT TO REALLY FIX YOU GOOD)). Eric Verheiden I met in Chicago at DippyCon...you got' to watch him too, as he likes to win. Tom Eller...smooth, smooth, but a killer at heart...really plays to win. Chic Hilliker...a "Ring" addict, publisher of the SIMIRILLE. John DePrisco... plays the game with a computer...never misses a move...if he wins, a joint victory with him and IBM will be declared. JAMES BOSKY...the intellectual in the game...held out in 1909CJ against the world so it seemed...lives in Orange, New Jersey sometimes. Bill Klitzke may be the only player who is mismatched for this game...my advice, Bill, is to wipe them all out!...or, sit back and watch the gore develop! I hope all of you will accept the positions that you drew. First Stand-by for this game will be Bob Knudsen of course, who is our resident stand-by in all games in which he is not playing. House rules are THE RULE BOOK plus RODDY WACKERS!. GENERAL ORDERS and CONDITIONAL ORDERS are encouraged. Please advise phone numbers if you wish me to place collect calls if NMR before a deadline.

SPRING 1901 revisited...snicker. THAT, my friends, was a prime example of a Polish joke. We received many varied comments from individuals ranging from Conrad Von Metzke's offer to submit stand-by orders for whoever dropped out because of what was printed...Conrad wanting to submit orders by diagram, rather than chance my whims; John Ostapkovich wanted to make some orders which were funny, but I lost them...many others. HOWEVER, looking at the Fall 1901 moves, even in English, should lead one to conclude that these guys are all Poles at heart! HehHehHeh.

THEMOPOLIDE, GERMANY (NASRIB): The Treachery that has brought the Russians forth from their caves in Warsaw has been slowly emerging to the light. It always was suspected that if you scratch a Pole long enough he'll bleed Red and now we know for sure.

PRAIS, FRANCE: French Armed Forces Commander Phillippe Malvoisin told the newbuffs here today that he expects to keep control of his country despite rumors that an insurgent group of underground resistance types are planning an overthrow. Malvoisin said that the rumors were the work of Les Bosh, but that he doesn't expect Germany to partake in any aggressive activity since Commander Otto Matic of the German Command in Berlin has signed a statement to that effect.

METROPOLIS: Claud Ooopoookowski traveled like lightning on his 436HP Mack Garbage Truck. Whenever danger called (or trash needed picked up) Claud would be there!

After failing the Bank robbery, Claud resumed his disguise as Fred Ooopoookowski and took his "Win with Claud" sign off of the truck body. Now he was in conspicuous and could move through Metropolis' streets unnoticed. It wasn't long after he returned to the main garage that an urgent call came in. "Pick up some empty crates behind Joe's Dinner!" (---)) Fred was first to answer the garbage call. As he drove uptown he noticed a man attacking a frail young girl in an alley! "Ah, this is a job for Claud Ooopoookowski! Hold on, my dear, Claud will be right with you!"

And as quickly as he could, Claud sped to her aid. It only took 15 minutes to pick up Joe's crates and he was back in the alley. Soon after, he jumped from his Mack, but fell flat on his face. His army surplus boots had gotten caught as he tried to slip into his "Win with Claud" leotard. "Wait it! I must remember to put this on before the boots!" Claud got off his fury, and entered, "Swift before Boot". He then ran to the girl's aid. She was half-naked and beaten unconscious. As Claud tried to do the right thing (he was having trouble, because the zipper on this leotard had stuck) he heard his 436HP Mack START UP! The mugger was escaping in his garbage truck! This was too much. Claud almost castrated himself by pulling the zipper, which he had so much trouble pulling down, back up again, while chasing the truck. "STOP THIEF"! WILL CLAUD CATCH THE GARBAGE? WILL LOIS LOVE HIM IF HE DOESN'T??
